

Embossed & Debossed

Embossing results in a raised surface, with the design higher than the surrounding product area. Text, logos and other images can all be formed by the embossing method.

Debossing results in a depressed surface, with the design lower than the surrounding product area.

